A. Background

Education:

Northwestern University	Post-Doc	2007-2009	Scalp Electroencephalography
University of California, Los Angeles	PhD	2004	Cognitive Neuroscience
University of California, Los Angeles	MA	2000	Cognitive Psychology
Cleveland State University	MA	1998	Experimental Psychology
Wheaton College	BS	1988	Chemistry, Biology minor

Positions Held:

2010-present Graduate Faculty, Stritch School of Medicine, Maywood IL
2010-present Member, Neuroscience Institute, Stritch School of Medicine, Maywood IL
2009-present Graduate Faculty, School of Arts and Sciences, Loyola University Chicago
2009-present Assistant Professor of Psychology, Loyola University Chicago, Chicago IL
2007-2009 Post-Doctoral Fellow, Psychology Department, Northwestern University, Evanston IL
2007-2008 Adjunct Professor, School of the Art Institute, Chicago IL
2003-2007 Executive Director and Project Producer, Xunesis, Chicago, IL
2002-2007 Research Consultant, Medantics Technology, Salt Lake City Utah
1993-1998 Artist & Director, Studio Theia, Cleveland OH
1991-1994 Group Leader, Basic Research, Day-Glo Color Corp., Cleveland OH
1989-1991 Senior Chemist, Corporate Research, Nalco Chemical Co., Naperville IL
1988-1989 Research Technician, Neurology Department, Northwestern University Chicago, IL

Awards & Honors

Loyola University Chicago Langerbeck Award for Undergraduate Research Mentoring (2012)

Finalist for the James S. McDonnell Foundation 2012 Scholar Award in Understanding Human Cognition— one of 24 finalists selected internationally (2012)

Nominated for the Sujack Award for Teaching Excellence, College of Arts and Science, Loyola University Chicago (2012)

Travel Fellowship from the Alzheimer's Association to attend the International Conference on Alzheimer's Disease and Imaging Consortium, Paris France (2011)

Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Distinguished Mentor Award, Honorable Mention (2011)

Fellowship from the National Institute of Mental Health for the Yearly Workshop in the Event-Related Potential Technique at University of California, Davis (1R25MH080794-01 Steve Luck PI; 2008)

National Research Service Award from the National Institute of Aging to study Mechanisms of Aging and Dementia (T32AG020506, John Disterhoft PI; 2007- 2009)

Individual National Research Service Award from the National Institute of Mental Health to study Working Memory and Inhibition in Analogical Reasoning (Individual Award F31MH064244-01A1; 2002-2004)

National Research Service Award from the National Institute of Mental Health to study Developmental Cognitive Science (Training Grant T32MH019926-05; Rochel Gelman PI; 1999-2000)

Support (PI, Investigator, Consultant)

IDPH, Alzheimer's Disease Research Fund Grant 1/1/2012-12/31/2012 $34,958
Electrophysiology of category learning in Alzheimer's Disease
 Role: Principal Investigator

Loyola University Summer Stipend 6/1/2012-8/15/2012 $7,000
Electrophysiology of Category Learning in Super Agers
 Role: Principal Investigator

Rosalinde and Arthur Gilbert Foundation 7/1/2011-6/30/2013 $99,988
 American Federation of Aging Research/New Investigator in Alzheimer's Disease Award
Electrophysiology of Category Learning in Mild Cognitive Impairment
 Role: Principal Investigator

Loyola University, Multidisciplinary Development Grant 7/1/2011-6/30/2012 $25,000
Is political ideology hardwired? Testing political variables in the brain
 Role: co-Principal Investigator

IDPH, Alzheimer's Disease Research Fund Grant 10/1/2009-9/30/2010 $30,000
Electrophysiology of category learning in Alzheimer's Disease
 Role: Principal Investigator

NIA, Northwestern Alzheimer's Disease Core Center 10/1/2009-9/30/2010 $28,000
Electrophysiological of Category Learning in Patients with Mild Cognitive Impairment
 Role: Principal Investigator; Awarded and then unfunded because of institution change

SBIR OSD03-DH07 ONR, Gregory Thompson (PI) 2006-2007
Medical Training for Force Mobilization and Disaster Response
 Role: Consultant

SBIR OSD01-CR11 ONR, Gregory Thompson (PI) 2002-2004
An Intelligent System for Case-Based Instruction
 Role: Consultant

Pending Support (PI, Investigator, Consultant)

Loyola University, Multidisciplinary Development Grant 6/1/2012 – 8/31/2013 $29,908
The Neural Correlates of Behavioral Activation Therapy (Mobilize!) in Depression
 Role: Co-Investigator

James S. McDonnell Foundation 2012 Scholar Award in Understanding Human Cognition Executive function and knowledge in relational thought: An integrated developmental, neuroimaging and computational approach Role: Principal Investigator	9/1/2012-8/31/2019	$600,000
Support (Mentor)
Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Mulchay Fellowship: Rebecca Shukkman – student Electrophysiology of Category Learning in Super-Agers Role: Sponsor	9/1/2012-4/30/2013	$2,000
Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Mulchay Fellowship: Nirav Patel – student The Role of Inhibition in Determining Political Ideology Role: Sponsor	9/1/2012-8/30/2013	$2,000
Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Mulchay Fellowship: Matt Kmiecik – student Electrophysiology of Verbal Analogical Reasoning Role: Sponsor	9/1/2012-8/30/2013	$2,000
Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Provost Fellowship: Nirav Patel – student The Role of Inhibition in Determining Political Ideology Role: Sponsor	5/1/2012-8/30/2013	$2,000
Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Provost Fellowships: Matt Kmiecik – student Electrophysiology of Verbal Analogical Reasoning Role: Sponsor	5/1/2012-8/30/2013	$2,000
WISER Program: Laura L. Mayer Summer Internship Program Intern: Katherine D'Aunno Electrophysiology of Category Learning in Super-Agers Role: Faculty Co-mentor	5/1/2012- 8/30/2012	$2,500
Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Provost Fellowship: Nirav Patel – student The Role of Inhibition in Determining Political Ideology Role: Sponsor	9/1/2011-4/30/2012	$1,900
Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Provost Fellowship: Miraj Chokshi – student Neurocorrelates of Relational and Featural Similarity Processing Role: Sponsor	5/15/2011-8/30/2011	$1,500
Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Provost Fellowship: Matt Kmiecik – student Electrophysiology of Verbal Analogical Reasoning Role: Sponsor	5/15/2011-8/30/2011	$1,900
Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program Provost Fellowship: Miraj Chokshi – student The Effect of Personal Perceived Power on Reasoning Strategy Selection Role: Sponsor	9/1/2010-5/1/2011	$2,000

Carbon Undergraduate Research Fellowship Program 9/1/2010-5/1/2012 $15,000
 Carbon Fellowship: Brian Sweis – student
The Behavioral and Neurochemical Analysis of the Effects of Chronic Stress on Mental Health
 Role: Co-sponsor

Pending Support (Mentor)

Johnson Scholars Program 9/1/2012-5/1/2014 $11,000
 Johnson Scholar: Elise Gagnon – student
Development of neural networks responsible for analogical reasoning
 Role: Sponsor

Johnson Scholars Program 9/1/2012-5/1/2014 $11,000
 Johnson Scholar: Izabelle Rymut – student
Behavioral and Electrophysiological Predictors for Alzheimer’s Disease
 Role: Sponsor

Johnson Scholars Program 9/1/2012-5/1/2014 $11,000
 Johnson Scholar: Callie Short – student
The role of face processing in video game violence induced changes in empathy
 Role: Sponsor

Loyola University Chicago, Department of Psychology, Assistant Professor – for copies of recent syllabi please see: <http://www.canlab.org/teaching1.html>

Undergraduate Course, College of Arts and Sciences

Psychology 314: Experimental Psychology – Cognition – syllabus available on request (Fall 2009, Spring 2010, Spring 2011). Experimental methods allow psychologists to move beyond mere speculation and intuition to build theories of how people think based on the scientific method. You have previously learned about many of these theories and perhaps a few of the methods in your Cognitive Psychology course. During this course you will further your skills to design experiments to answer your own questions. To meet this goal, in this course you will participate in a variety of experiments used by cognitive psychologists to address questions about attention, memory and reasoning. You will also learn to analyze these experiments and practice presenting your results in the ways commonly used by experimental psychologists.

Psychology 398/382: Cognitive and Behavioral Neuroscience –syllabus available on request (Fall 2010, Fall 2011, Fall 2012). The field of cognitive neuroscience, officially just over 30 years old, has revolutionized the way psychologists study the mind and its disorders. Building on the older disciplines of behavioral neurology and physiological psychology, cognitive neuroscience adds a broad change of new methods that provide spatial and temporal views of neural processing as well as innovative techniques to alter brain structure or functioning. Together these methods add to the traditional experimental methods of psychological science to allow us to move beyond mere speculation and intuition to build theories of how people think based on the scientific method and importantly constrained by mechanisms and representations consistent with how the brain processes information. In this course the methods of cognitive neuroscience including genetics, brain imaging (e.g., single unit recording, EEG/ERP/ERO, fMRI, PET, MEG) and dissociation-based techniques such as behavioral neurology and TMS. You will also become familiar with the structure of the human brain. Putting these together we will then consider a broad range of topics in higher human cognition including: object recognition, memory, emotions, social cognition, language, attention, consciousness, reasoning & problem solving and decision making. Thus, this course will survey a broad range of topics mainly through lecture presentations including video. However, you will be expected to learn much from the assigned readings. You will also have a unique opportunity to learn to apply the course material through making a video of your own.

Honors 204: Science & Society: Psychology of Creativity –syllabus available on request (Spring 2011, Spring 2012). During the last sixty years scientists have explored the personality traits, mental processes, and brain functions that allow people to exhibit creative behavior. In this course we will survey a variety of different theories of creativity drawing on cognitive, developmental, personality and social psychology and neuroscience. We will consider artistic, scientific and cultural creativity, making extensive use of reading and film to encounter creators and their products directly and through the minds of their students and scholars. Together we will reflect on our own creative processes via discussion and writing and engage in a group study of a living eminent creative individual here in Chicago.

Neuroscience 300: Seminar in Neuroscience

Graduate Courses: College of Arts & Sciences & Neuroscience Graduate Program

Psychology 435: Information Processing/Seminar in Cognitive Neuroscience–syllabus available on request (Spring 2010, Spring 2012). The way that information is represented and processed in the brain is central to a broad range of topics in psychological science. In this course we will consider how the methods of cognitive neuroscience including brain imaging (e.g., EEG/ERP/ERO, fMRI, MEG) and dissociation-based techniques such as neuropsychology and TMS, have revolutionized the exploration of these topics. We will pay particular attention to how these techniques can be used to understand higher-level cognition during development and in questions related to social psychology and psychopathology. Class participants will be introduced to these techniques, read, present, and discuss results from the primary literature, and also have an opportunity to develop an idea relating to their own research incorporating one or more of these methods.

*School of the Art Institute of Chicago; Liberal Arts Department – Adjunct ProfessorBehavior & Genetics – Syllabus and Student Evaluations available on request

Understanding how genetics influences our mind and behavior has progressed more in the last ten years than in the rest of human history combined and the pace continues to accelerate. This rapid progress necessitates that every human being understand their genetic organization and its implications at a much more advanced level to be able to make important personal, reproductive, medical, political and ethical decisions in the future. Using primary and secondary scientific literature as well as readings from the popular press reading this course provides an introduction to the molecular and quantitative methods of contemporary behavioral genetics, a field at the crossroads of biology, cognitive science, neuroscience, and psychology. The also provides an introduction to psychological measurement. I taught this course during Spring 2007.

Psychology of Creativity – Syllabus and Student Evaluations available on request

During the last eighty years psychologists have explored the traits and processes that help people be creative. Drawing on cognitive, social and personality psychology as well as neuroscience, this course surveys a variety of different models of creativity. We consider both artistic and scientific creativity, making extensive use of primary and secondary literature and both feature and documentary film to encounter creators and their products directly. Students reflect on their own creative processes via both writing and creative production. I taught this course during Spring 2008.

One Northwestern Initiative – Post-Doctoral representative on the Centers subcommittee

One Northwestern was an initiative aimed at examining the entire structure of the life and biomedical sciences at Northwestern and making recommendations to transform it to meet the needs of the 21st century. The “Centers, Institutes, and Departments Committee” was charged with finding ways to foster cross department collaboration, enabling faculty and students to be fully engaged and to reach their potential within an institution that places great value on science excellence and innovation. Partly due to my record of successful collaboration, I was nominated to serve on this committee for one year as the sole Post-Doctoral representative amongst the participating faculty and administrators from a variety of different Northwestern departments.

University of California, Los Angeles

Redesign of UCLA Cognitive Psychology Laboratory

While a graduate student at UCLA, I served on a committee charged with redesigning the cognitive teaching laboratory in Franz Hall. This involved acting as a consultant in the design of a 21 computer networked facility driven off of a common network server. The system allowed for quick deployment of laboratory experiments across all of the laboratory computers. Integrated software included SuperLab, MatLab, and SPSS as well as a variety of programming environments used for Computational Modeling courses. I was chosen to be a part of the committee because of my past experience in research management, experience with maintaining a 15 computer cognitive laboratory and also because of my extensive experience as a teaching assistant in the cognitive laboratory
